- ELITE Inspiring Stories

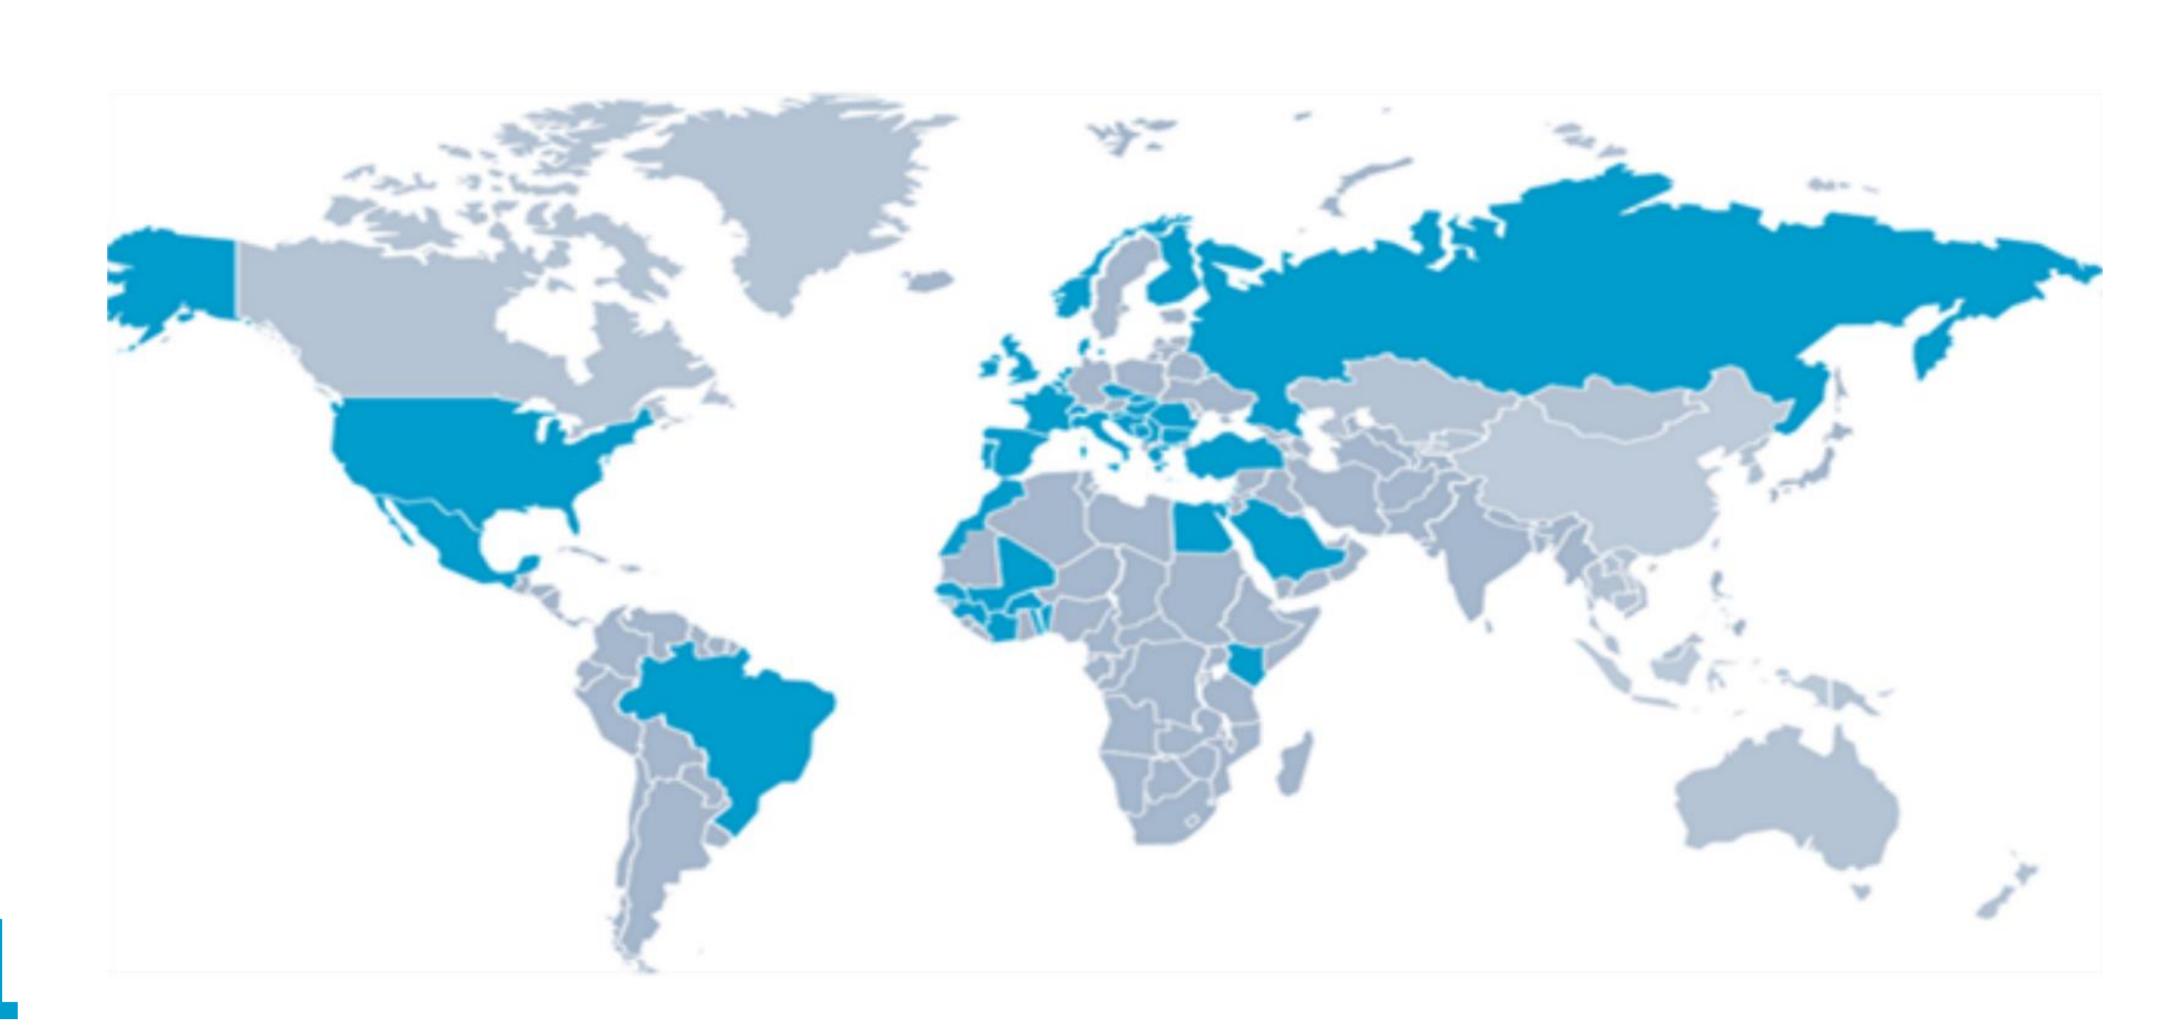

Unsurprisingly, ELITE faced many challenges in the first half of 2020. Like most, we had to transition our team to working remotely and adjust to the new normal. At the same time, we found ourselves to be a critical link for many of our companies facing fundamental business challenges arising from the COVID-19 pandemic.

We quickly mobilised our efforts and created a dedicated #ELITETogether campaign where companies could access immediate insights and support needed on different challenges including legal obligations, managing supply chain disruptions, accessing government support and many more. As urgent matters subsided, the need for creating a 'resilient strategy' became relevant for all. With the support of our partners, we updated our programme content and created a practical resilience tool for the benefit of our members.

We continue to engage in a fully digital way and are seeing the benefits of the peer network even more so. We've launched ELITE Live, a digital networking event for our global community, with the first one hosted with Kelly Flanagan, CFO of the Jacksonville Jaguars & Fulham Football Club sharing her inspiring story. Through the challenging times, the role of ELITE is even more critical in supporting ambitious private companies especially when it comes to understanding and addressing their financial needs. We continue to work at an individual company level as well as the institutional and stakeholder level to bring capital where it is needed most for long term economic growth.

Investors: the source of capital.

Investors play a very critical role in the success of ELITE companies' funding journey. ELITE funding platform has been supporting ELITE companies since its launch in 2017. I am pleased that our investment community now includes over 270 firms, with 400 individuals from these firms registered, over 30 of which are new joiners so far this year.

We have the breadth and depth of professional investors from debt to equity, from family offices to early stage venture capital to traditional private equity firms, across 15 countries in Europe to ensure we can meet the diverse needs of our companies with a divers pool of capital.

We continue to curate connections with investors through our Investor Forums with the first one this year having taken place in February. Such forums continue to provide great value to our companies and investors.

Feedback from some of our investors can be found here, capturing their advice for founders on the importance of identifying the right investors, starting the investment process at an early stage, and value that events such as the Investor Forum can bring.

We continue to proactively build our community of professional investors to help companies access the funds they need for growth.

Paola Cuneo – Head of ELITE Advisers & Investors.

A key feature that makes the Basket Bond® different from traditional fundraising vehicles is the mutual guarantees offered by the companies taking part. Each ELITE issuing company guarantees not only its payment obligations but also those of the other issuing companies. This feature has enabled considerable mitigation of the credit risk of the basket and consequently long-term financing has been obtained at a profitable cost for each company.

Funding is out there for female founders.

'A key goal of ELITE is supporting investment for female-led business. I am proud ELITE has signed HM Treasury's Investment in Women Code as testament of this commitment and I am encouraged by the numbers of investors on our platform who are actively investing in female businesses. This journey has only begun and I expecting to see more successful funding in the future.' Paola Cuneo — Head of ELITE Advisers&Investors Read more here.

The Female Entrepreneur Series.

Launched in June, a series of digital events, in partnership with NatWest, designed to bring the community of female entrepreneurs, investors and experts together – providing opportunity to share their experience as a business leader and learn from others.

The UK has an impressive record of entrepreneurialism, attracting more venture capital and having a higher rate of start-ups than any other European nation. And whilst the UK scores highly in female entrepreneurship worldwide, it still lags behind some of its best-in-class peer countries, as Natwest's Alison Rose Review of Female Entrepreneurship finds. The COVID-19 pandemic could further increase the gap in access to funding for female led businesses. This series focuses on sharing experiences in dealing with business disruption in these uncertain times and learning about the variety of funding options available in both the short-term and long-term. As well as offering a number of exciting speakers, the events are also an opportunity to virtually meet with other like-minded female founders and share growth journeys, pitfalls and successes.
